

PRESCHOOL UNIFORM

St. Agnes Preschool recognizes the beauty in each person God created and therefore teaches its students to appreciate their individual gifts and appearance as God intended. Clothing often influences the child's mode of operation and social interaction for the day. Young children are very likely to act like the clothing in which they dress. This tends to draw the child from the kind of special experiences and cooperative play that are available at school. Parent cooperation in seeing that the uniform code is adhered to is not only appreciated but also expected. The following is the list of the uniform requirements:
